HONGRONG, FEBRUARY 22nd, 1877.

In his little work on Teaand the Tea Trade, Mr. REGINALD HANSON makes some interestin India. The shrub, as most of our readers vultivate it until the Government, after imnew field of enterprise afforded by this in the evidence, his Lordship gave a decree for $10 seat. He told him that it was taken. The pro. that for the pro. the pro. that for the pro. that for the pro. that for the pro. Since then, in spite of some flue, with costs.

I tuations and various losses through rash speculation, the growth of the trade has gone THE CHRONICLE AND DIRECTORY on steadily increasing. The export of this article from Calcutta has risen wonderfully during the past ten years, and it is now rapidly assuming an important position. In 1866 4,887,000lbs. were exported to Great Britain. and 60,000lbs. to all other parts; in 1875, 24,432,000 lbs. was despatched to Great Britain and 313,000 lbs. to other places. These figures make it tolerally obvious that Indiantes is growing into favour in the United Kingdom. Mr. Hanson evidently considers it superior to that of China, and belinves that the Chinese will have to take care or their product will lose its hold on the market. In India the tea is grown on scientific principles, and it is brought to much greater perfection than in China. The Chinese method of fultivation is he says, a backward one, and if they have grown tea without manure, on hill sides, the plant; in India they are now avoided, as it is found that if the soil is kept sufficiently open by frequent diggings to get rid of weeds the heavy rains wash, it down to the foot weeds thrive, and diminish the yield by choking the plants. Altogether it appears that the Chinese modes of cultivation and preparation are of a primitive description and may easily be improved upon. There is evidently good reason to believe that in the course of time the United Kingdom will be able to draw the major portion of its supply of ten from India. The cost of production may perhaps at present be somewhat greater there, but the carriage is less, and if the quality is shown to be superior to the competition will become formidable

It cannot, however, fail to be satisfactory to the British Government and people to know that they are not likely to be dependent on China in the future for their supply will, too, serve to prevent the Chinese from offering worthless teas forsale in the British market beside keeping down prices. Or the disastrous effect which deforesting on a large scale has upon the climate of a country one more recent illustration has been afforded Mr. Consul Rumbot D, in his able report upon the trade of Chili, comments, upon the remarkable extension of agriculture in that country. Good markets for their cercals are Lfound in Australia and Poru, and the Chi lians, in their eagerness to produce wheat and barley, recklessly burnt down the woods on the lower Cordilleras near the coast. The progress of mining led to the same result in the valleys of the main chain of the Andes; the consequence of this unwooding has been to deprive the country of its due rainfall and to threaten the soil with sterility. Thirty years ago, Mr. RUMBOLD tells us, travellers posting between Valparaise and The Chronicle and Directory is the only Santiago a distance of only ninety milespublication of its kind for China and Jupan, were comotimes, in winter, detained as many and it will be found invaluable in all Public; as five days by the swollen state of the rivers and the heaviness of the roads, and it regu-It is published in two forms-Complete at larly took bullock-carts a wonth to make the ; or, with the Lists of Residents, Port Direct journey. In 1872, "there were 335 dry days, of which 233 were entirely cloudless, and 102 either partially or entirely overcast. There. was much rain on 19, and it was showery or 12, out of the remaining 31 days. In 1873, when the winter was more severe, the rainy days amounted to 25, and the showers days to Il." The result is that one whom Mr. RUMBOLD describes as a great authority, Mesers, Kelly & Walsh, Signat. gpeaks of "the sterility which is invading with alarming rapidity, the fields of the Cen-HANKOW and p Messrs. The same thing occurred in many parts of Mexico, where the Spanish colonists denuded whole districts YOKOHARA, Mesers-Lane, Orawford & Co. of trees. In Spain, too, the fertility of the soil has been prejudicially affected by the same practice. Great complaints are made in some of the States in America of the Matheson-& Co. said that yesterday morning at wholesale destruction of forests, which has changed the climate in those parts for the worse. In France the intabitants have seen reason to deplore the destruction of woods NEW YORK..... Messra. S. M. In India the distruction of trees has also had a baneful effect in producing horse boy had his box broken open and some of drought and consequent failure of crops. S. WATSON-AND CO. Lastly, the prolonged droughts which have caused the terrible famine now raging in the provinces of Shantung and Chihli are said to be mainly due to the same cause. The Vicerov LI HUNG-CHANG has, moreover, it is stated: go far recognised the source of the calamity. as to order the planting of trees on a large scale with a view to attract more rain. There is no doubt that the system -ndopted by so many people of clearing the land of all the timber is prolific of evil, and accounts for most of the severe droughts experienced in those countries where the trees have been thoughtlessly sacrificed. In spite of the rain and slush the Mayor and and other city fathers went outside the cast gate to welcome the Spring on Friday last, and pass congrammations and give, every one a chance to see what the next year is going to be like. For this purpose the image of the ecpentrio dwarf Nguo-ma was borne aloft; and the party-coloured sow displayed her brilliant bues, From a protty-picture-olmanac and astrology made-easy we learn the following: - The colour of the cow's budy being yellow, the year will be, on the whole, a prosperous one. Her head and feet boing red show that dry weather will preval during the first half of the year. Her blue ears and home denote wars of limited extent, while her black tail forebodes storm and floods." Ngao ma appears in a state of tremendous activity. He hasn't time to put tail is flying. All which shows that this erratio but patriotic genius is wide-awake this year and is himself undertaking to set right whatever is wrong among the people. He'being buty, the people may be entirely easy and at rest. Ngao-ma does not seem to extend big protection to all the provinces, and is an original in bi way. I venture to give a sketch of him. WALK HALF-WAY-TO THE MOON In these days of great pedestrian feats. worth while to record the doings of an ol Yorkshireman who has just died at the ripe nge of eighty four years, at Masham, in York shire. James Hean was a school master, and carried on his calling in a wild and bleak part . of the country, walking every day a distance of eight miles. He lived at a cotton-mill just below the village of Healey, which is in the western part of that portion of Warkshir called Mashamshire. His schoolhouse was four miles distant, at Coltersdale, which still further west, and among the bliak hills and wild moors leading away to Westmoreland. A storm of wind and rain is no triffing malter in those parts, and during snow-storm the snow very often drifts so thickly as to make the roads almost impass; able; but no condition of the weather or atmosphere could shake Heap's steadfast purpose, and he never had any ailment o accident which keps him from going his daily round to the school and home again; Manya time had he to wade through suos drifts to find that his pupils were not able to reach the school, and he was constantly subjected to a drenching rain in the Win ter months. Yet from December, 1822. t January, 1867, he never missed a sin day, and during 2,292 consecutive weeks he walked more than 110,000 miles, or was he altogether idle on Sundays, forduring forfy-two years of this period he snared with. others the teaching of a Sunday-school at a place called Summerside, about the same distance from his home, and in an equally dreary and wild dictrict on the moors with Colteratate: seventeen Sundays in each year during these forty-two years did he walk eight miles to teach, which adds an aggregate of 5:712 to the former sum, so that taking Sundays and week days into reckoning. he would, if he had continued his work-for rather more than another year, have covere distance equal to half the space between the th and moon.
